

RBC Large Cap US Tactical Equity Total Return Index

Performance Factsheet

Index Objectives:

The RBC Large Cap US Tactical Equity Total Return Index is designed to meet or exceed risk-adjusted returns relative to the benchmark by optimizing asset allocation between Large-Cap U.S. equities and cash. This dynamic asset allocation is implemented by observing bullish or bearish trends in Large-Cap U.S. equities, on a monthly basis, to determine the exposure until the next monthly observation.

Index Description

The Index provides exposure to either Large-Cap U.S. equities or cash (the Federal Funds rate). This allocation determination is based on monthly observations of a pre-defined Tactical Trigger: the 200 daily moving average (200 DMA) of the SPDR S&P 500 ETF Trust (Bloomberg: SPY US Equity; the ETF). The Index obtains exposure to Large-Cap U.S. equities by tracking the performance of the futures contract.

On the specified monthly determination date, if the ETF is at or above its 200 DMA (a bullish trend), the Index will allocate to equity via the E-mini S&P 500 futures contract plus the Federal Funds rate (to replicate the total return) or only to the Federal Funds rate if the ETF is below its relevant 200 DMA (a bearish trend).

Important Information About the Historical Performance of the Index

The Index was launched on February 18, 2019. Accordingly, all of the information about the performance of the Index prior to that date is based on hypothetical back-tested information.

The hypothetical performance of the Index is based on criteria that have been applied retroactively with the benefit of hindsight; these criteria cannot account for all financial risk that may affect the actual performance of the Index in the future. The future performance of the Index may vary significantly from the hypothetical performance data in this document. In addition, please note that the back-tested performance of the Index set forth in this document does not reflect the deduction of any fees and charges that would be applicable to a financial instrument that references the Index.
